

WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 2017 – 2 PM WEATHER FORECAST

No change in our weather pattern that is dominated by a strong upper-level ridge of high pressure. This ridge will be anchored across the Central Plains for the rest of our championship week. Rainfall chances remain very low, and our temperatures will continue to slowly climb through the 90s to near 100. With dew points between 65 and 70 all week, the heat and humidity will prompt a heat index between 100 and 105 degrees through Thursday during the afternoon hours, and should hit a maximum value of 106 degrees by Friday and Saturday. Expect a sustained south wind this afternoon mainly 7 to 14 mph, with a few gusts to 20 mph. A south-southwest wind is expected at 14 mph tomorrow, and a southwest wind by Friday with gusts to 24 mph. Looks like a front will be nearing KS by Saturday evening from the north, bringing scattered storms back into our forecast by Saturday night. Please stay hydrated in this heat!!!
