

Avantor[®]: A leader in life science tools

OUR MISSION

We set science in motion to create a better world.

WHO WE ARE

At Avantor (NYSE: AVTR), we work side-by-side with scientists around the world to enable breakthroughs in medicine, healthcare, and technology at scale. From early-stage research to development and delivery, we are a proven partner in highly regulated environments, offering a comprehensive portfolio, productivity-enhancing technology and global manufacturing and distribution capabilities.

We are deeply embedded in our customers' laboratory ecosystems and are a trusted partner in enabling scientific insights. Our extensive portfolio of products, materials and services provide essential resources for research, diagnostics and quality testing, where precision is paramount. Our ecommerce platform, Avantor ScienceCentral, gives scientists both choice and quality with our comprehensive offering of proprietary and reputable third-party brands, including millions of SKUs. And, our digital solutions streamline lab operations and return time to scientists, so they can focus on science.

As advancements in medicine, healthcare and technology progress from research and development to commercial production, innovators need a proven partner as they prepare to go to market.

At Avantor, we provide cGMP production-scale materials and solutions – backed by our global quality management system and deep regulatory expertise. Our experts collaborate with customers to understand their requirements, customize solutions and expedite time to market. From ultra-high purity process ingredients and excipients to custom medical and space grade silicones and diagnostic reagents – our mission-critical materials are integral to our customers' bioprocessing, healthcare and advanced technology applications.
