Strategic Initiatives and Business Updates

Advancing our priorities

- In May, PayPal announced the deployment of QR code technology in 28 markets globally. The introduction of the QR code functionality in the PayPal and Venmo apps provides customers with a touch-free way to buy or sell in person, safely and securely. CVS Pharmacy is the first retail chain that will offer customers the ability to use PayPal and Venmo QR codes at checkout in the U.S. This experience will be introduced in Q4'20, with rollout to all stores by the end of the year.
- In June, PayPal entered into a commercial relationship with Gojek, a multi-service platform and leader in mobile commerce in Southeast Asia, with more than 170 million users.
- In April, PayPal enabled direct deposit for Venmo users. Venmo also launched Business Profiles, a new offering that allows sole proprietors and casual sellers to have a professional presence on Venmo's platform.
- PayPal is now available as a payment option within Mercado Pago's online checkout for shoppers in Brazil and Mexico. In addition, PayPal is now a payment option for cross border transactions in MercadoLibre's marketplace in Brazil and Mexico.
- PayPal expanded its Visa Direct partnership globally to accelerate real-time access to funds for small businesses, consumers and partners across PayPal's platform. PayPal will also be enabled to extend global white label Visa Direct payout services through PayPal, Braintree, Hyperwallet and iZettle.

Our Values in Action

Supporting our employees, customers and communities

- In June, PayPal announced a $530 million commitment to support Black and minority-owned businesses and communities in the U.S., especially those hardest hit by COVID-19. This commitment includes short-term, medium-term, and long-term investments in businesses and communities to address economic inequality.
- PayPal has also provided access to more than $2 billion in loans through the U.S. Small Business Administration's Paycheck Protection Program (PPP) to more than 76,000 small businesses in the U.S.
- The PayPal Giving Platform has facilitated over $5.6 billion in donations from customers, partners and employees since early March. This includes charities leveraging the PayPal platform to process donations, PayPal's COVID-19 fundraising campaigns in 12 markets, funds donated at checkout, PayPal's employee giving campaigns and corporate matching dollars, and PayPal's partner fundraising from companies like Facebook, Airbnb, Live Nation, Spotify, Nextdoor and Google.

Bronx Native

Prior to the pandemic, PayPal helped Bronx Native, a clothing line with two retail locations, accept in-store and online payments and expand using a Working Capital loan. When the pandemic hit, a PPP loan from PayPal helped Amaurys and Roselyn Grullon maintain their stores and keep their business running. As sales moved online, the PayPal checkout button allowed customers to easily and securely shop.

"PayPal helped us continue to spark that flame and spread our mission of changing the narrative and seeing communities like ours thrive."

We earn revenue from the following types of transactions:

- Transaction revenues: Net transaction fees charged to merchants and consumers on a transaction basis primarily based on the volume of activity, or Total Payment Volume ("TPV"), completed on our Payments Platform, including our PayPal, PayPal Credit, Braintree, Venmo, Xoom, iZettle, and Hyperwallet products and services. We earn additional fees on transactions where we perform currency conversion, when we enable cross-border transactions (i.e., transactions where the merchant and consumer are in different countries), to facilitate the instant transfer of funds for our customers from their PayPal or Venmo account to their debit card or bank account, and other miscellaneous fees.
- Revenues from other value added services: Net revenues derived primarily from revenue earned through partnerships, referral fees, subscription fees, gateway fees, and other services we provide to our merchants and consumers. We also earn revenues from interest and fees earned primarily on our portfolio of loans receivable, and interest earned on certain assets underlying customer balances.

PayPal Holdings, Inc.
Non-GAAP Measures of Financial Performance

To supplement the company's condensed consolidated financial statements presented in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, or GAAP, the company uses non-GAAP measures of certain components of financial performance. These non-GAAP measures include non-GAAP net income, non-GAAP diluted earnings per share, non-GAAP operating income, non-GAAP operating margin, non-GAAP effective tax rate, free cash flow, and adjusted free cash flow.

These non-GAAP measures are not in accordance with, or an alternative to, measures prepared in accordance with GAAP and may be different from non-GAAP measures used by other companies. In addition, these non-GAAP measures are not based on any comprehensive set of accounting rules or principles. Non-GAAP measures have limitations in that they do not reflect all of the amounts associated with the company's results of operations as determined in accordance with GAAP. These measures should only be used to evaluate the company's results of operations in conjunction with the corresponding GAAP measures.

Reconciliation to the most directly comparable GAAP measure of all non-GAAP measures included in this press release can be found in the tables included in this press release.

These non-GAAP measures are provided to enhance investors' overall understanding of the company's current financial performance and its prospects for the future. Specifically, the company believes the non-GAAP measures provide useful information to both management and investors by excluding certain expenses, gains and losses, as the case may be, that may not be indicative of its core operating results and business outlook. In addition, because the company has historically reported certain non-GAAP results to investors, the company believes that the inclusion of non-GAAP measures provides consistency in the company's financial reporting.

For its internal budgeting process, and as discussed further below, the company's management uses financial measures that do not include stock-based compensation expense, employer payroll taxes on stock-based compensation, amortization or impairment of acquired intangible assets, impairment of goodwill, restructuring-related charges, certain other gains, losses, benefits, or charges that are not indicative of the company's core operating results, and the income taxes associated with the foregoing. In addition to the corresponding GAAP measures, the company's management also uses the foregoing non-GAAP measures in reviewing the financial results of the company.

The company excludes the following items from non-GAAP net income, non-GAAP diluted earnings per share, non-GAAP operating income, non-GAAP operating margin, and non-GAAP effective tax rate:

Stock-based compensation expense and related employer payroll taxes. This consists of expenses for equity awards under our equity incentive plans. We exclude stock-based compensation expense from our non-GAAP measures primarily because they are non-cash expenses. The related employer payroll taxes are dependent on our stock price and the timing and size of exercises and vesting of equity awards, over which management has limited to no control, and as such management does not believe it correlates to the operation of our business.

Amortization or impairment of acquired intangible assets, impairment of goodwill, and transaction expenses from the acquisition or disposal of a business. We incur amortization or impairment of acquired intangible assets and goodwill in connection with acquisitions and may incur significant gains or losses or transactional expenses from the acquisition or disposal of a business and therefore exclude these amounts from our non-GAAP measures. We exclude these items because management does not believe they are reflective of our ongoing operating results.

Restructuring. These consist of expenses for employee severance and other exit and disposal costs. The company excludes significant restructuring charges primarily because management does not believe they are reflective of ongoing operating results.

Gains and losses on strategic investments. We record gains and losses on our strategic investments related to our interest in companies over which we have limited control and visibility. We exclude such gains and losses in full because we lack control over the operations of the investee and the related gains and losses are not indicative of our ongoing operating results.

Certain other significant gains, losses, benefits, or charges that are not indicative of the company's core operating results. These are significant gains, losses, benefits, or charges during a period that are the result of isolated events or transactions which have not occurred frequently in the past and are not expected to occur regularly in the future. The company excludes these amounts from its non-GAAP results because management does not believe they are indicative of our current or ongoing operating results.

Tax effect of non-GAAP adjustments. This adjustment is made to present stock-based compensation and the other amounts described above on an after-tax basis consistent with the presentation of non-GAAP net income.

The company also uses free cash flow, a non-GAAP measure. Free cash flow represents operating cash flows less purchases of property and equipment. The company considers free cash flow to be a liquidity measure that provides useful information to management and investors about the amount of cash generated by the business after the purchases of property, buildings, and equipment, which can then be used to, among other things, invest in the company's business, make strategic acquisitions and investments, and repurchase stock. A limitation of the utility of free cash flow as a measure of financial performance is that it does not represent the total increase or decrease in the company's cash balance for the period.

In addition to the non-GAAP measures discussed above, the company also analyzes certain measures, including net revenues and operating expenses, on an FX-neutral basis to better measure the comparability of operating results between periods. The company believes that changes in foreign currency exchange rates are not indicative of the company's operations and evaluating growth in net revenues and operating expenses on an FX-neutral basis provides an additional meaningful and comparable assessment of these measures to both management and investors. FX-neutral results are calculated by translating the current period's local currency results with the prior period's exchange rate. FX-neutral growth rates are calculated by comparing the current period's FX-neutral results by the prior period's results, excluding the impact from hedging activities.
