

MONDAY, AUGUST 28, 2017 – 6:15 AM WEATHER FORECAST

We picked up 0.11" of rainfall yesterday from a couple of late-afternoon showers. We should be totally rain-free today. A surface ridge of high pressure is moving into MN from the west and should be slow to exit our region. Overall, the rest of our championship is characterized by mostly sunny skies along with warm temperatures. High temperatures today near 75, and for the rest of our championship highs will be near 80 degrees. Winds will be from the north-northeast at 5 to 10 mph today and a light wind tomorrow. I still carry a 30% chance of an afternoon shower/storm Wednesday, but the activity may stay just north and east of us. Fog remains a possibility for late Tuesday night/early Wednesday morning, but I doubt it will impact play. Overnight lows near 60 degrees the next several nights. Elsewhere, Harvey continues to cause epic flooding in TX, especially near Houston. A new tropical storm (Irma) could form off the U.S. southeast coast tonight.
