

SATURDAY, AUGUST 11, 2018 – 730 AM WEATHER FORECAST

We revert back to scattered PM showers and storms (mainly 30% or less) for today and tomorrow. Oh, the weak upper-level trough is still hanging around, but we've benefited by the surface frontal boundary a little farther to our south today. Nevertheless, there are still impulses of energy in the upper-levels that can help trigger those PM showers/storms. With a good amount of sunshine, it heats back up a bit today – high temperature 90 degrees. 88 the high tomorrow. Dew points in the upper 60s means it's still humid, but better than when we had dew points in the lower 70s. Expect a northwest wind today and tomorrow. Wind speeds at 5 to 10 mph today and 4 to 8 mph tomorrow. We've seen a touch of fog around this morning, and it will be a little more dense tomorrow morning, but the fog should burn off rather quickly, by 8:15 AM. I'll keep you updated. Still hot here in town after our championship, with highs in the lower 90s for much of next week.
