U.S. SENIOR WOMEN'S OPEN — PINE NEEDLES — 2ND

USGA

TUESDAY, MAY 14, 2019 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

After a cool start this morning near 50 degrees, temps will warm up nicely today but will be below average only topping out around 74 degrees this afternoon. Skies will feature lots of sunshine today with just a couple of fair weather clouds trying to mix in midday. Dewpoints will be in the 40s and could even dip into the upper 30s providing very low humidity. The wind will not be as strong as yesterday, however mid morning through mid afternoon we should feel some northwesterly gusts up around or maybe even past 15 mph for a short time. Tonight will become another clear, calm and cool night with lows making a run at the mid 40s. Wednesday looks to be another beautiful day with mostly sunny skies, lighter winds and highs eventually peaking in the upper 70s. Thursday warms up more into the 80s with highs pushing 90 degrees Friday into this weekend as higher humidity returns.
