

TUESDAY, JUNE 25, 2019 – 5 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Look for better weather today as we will be graced with sunny skies this morning and then mixing with mainly fair weather clouds this afternoon. Temps are starting off comfortably cool in the lower 60s and highs this afternoon will top out nicely in the lower 80s. Dewpoints have dropped back to around 60 degrees, so the humidity will be lower today with breezy west and southwest winds gusting over 20 mph at times by this afternoon. We will need to watch the radar some by this evening as a weak disturbance in Illinois and Wisconsin could develop a few showers and storms that will race eastward. It should not be anything like the last two days with just a 20% chance of a shower or storm across northern Indiana from 5 PM on through the middle of tonight. By the time we get up and get going Wednesday morning, the atmosphere should be quiet again. We will begin a little milder Wednesday with temps in the upper 60s and the humidity will be up tomorrow with dewpoints in the 60s as highs reach the low to maybe mid 80s. There will also be less wind on Wednesday with our morning sunshine giving way to building clouds in the afternoon. Once again we'll have a 20% chance of a shower or storm, this time from 2 PM on as showers and storms will be more numerous hopefully a couple counties to our south.
