

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 5, 2020 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

We had 2.64" of rain at Woodmont Monday night and Tuesday morning, but conditions have certainly improved with sunshine this morning mixing with clouds this afternoon when highs reach the upper 80s. Showers and storms this afternoon will be more likely south and east of the District giving us just a 20% of action northwest of DC. Clouds will fill back in tonight with some shower or storm activity possible (40% risk), however expect somewhat murkier conditions on Thursday, featuring more cloud cover and also a bit less heat. The boundary that keeps the weather away from us today will lift back in our direction tomorrow giving us a 60% chance of showers and a 40% chance of storms. This lingering disturbance stays nearby Thursday night before beginning to slowly exit Friday allowing a bit more sunshine and hotter late day temps. We'll still have a 40% threat for showers or a storm through Friday afternoon, then a somewhat drier pattern begins Saturday with hotter temps and a nicely reduced chance for afternoon radar activity.
