

WEDNESDAY, JULY 14, 2021 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Another bright, sunny and humid start is on tap Wednesday here at Columbia Country Club! While in many ways our weather pattern will be the same today, the one slight difference comes in the form of afternoon stability of the atmosphere. Unlike yesterday, while our Bermuda High still remains parked offshore, there will be some upper-level energy swinging through late this afternoon and early this evening that could be just enough to trigger a shower or storm over the course. Otherwise, the main weather story continues to be the extreme heat and humidity, which will once again have us in a Heat Index rain just over 100F after lunchtime today. Looking ahead, Thursday looks to be a bitter hotter and drier, with less chance for a storm, and much the same story on Friday. Our next weather maker will be a pre-frontal boundary approaching on Saturday, but with luck that system will have its biggest impact late in the day, after the new champion is crowned!
