

THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 2021 – 6AM WEATHER FORECAST

An area of coastal low pressure will continue to bring mostly cloudy skies to start the day, as well as a continued chance for at least a few showers. The best chance for shower activity over Westchester CC will be through 11am, with a slight chance continuing the afternoon from potential brief pockets of instability as this large area of disturbed weather moves north and steadily further away from NY. We do look for the winds to be a bit higher today and generally out of the north, particularly from mid-morning through early afternoon. Beyond today's clouds, our weather looks to improve as high pressure moves in from the west, bringing much more sunshine and more seasonably warm summer temps to the area on Friday. This will also mark the beginning of a warmer southerly flow setting up that will continue right into the weekend. Both Saturday and Sunday look fairly quiet weather-wise, other than perhaps an afternoon shower or two being in the realm of possibility. Have a great day out there!
