

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 2021 – 7 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Noticeably less cloud cover than yesterday will allow for more beautiful, albeit hot sunshine today. So drink lots of water and hit the shade when possible today as highs heat up to around 90 degrees and the heat index reaches 95+ degrees this afternoon. Winds will vary from around a westerly direction through lunchtime with the onshore sea breeze picking up later this afternoon with a max gust near 10 mph late today. Skies stay clear most of tonight with a muggy low temp in the upper 60s. A few high clouds move in Thursday morning, becoming thicker more so in the afternoon when we reach our high of 90 degrees. Onshore flow will be around for most of play tomorrow while the offshore breeze takes over earlier in the afternoon. As a weak disturbance dips south along the Carolina coast, a stray shower/sprinkle is still possible Thursday, but is starting to look more likely Thursday night or especially Friday.
