

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 2021 – 7 AM WEATHER FORECAST

It will be a bit muggy this morning with some high clouds beginning to mix in with our nice and sunny skies. Winds will remain fairly light and out of the north, before shifting back easterly by afternoon. Temps will become hot midday near 90 degrees as dewpoints continue to linger in the 60s, creating a heat index in the mid 90s. More clouds mix in this afternoon with a 20% chance for a raindrop. Mild and muggy will be the trend overnight into Friday with the low fluttering near 70. Calm winds and this increase in moisture will lend the better chance for some patchy fog early Friday morning. Look for some extra clouds to be around Friday with the chance for a shower periodically throughout the daytime hours. Winds will begin to increase with gusts up to 15 mph, which will keep the afternoon high in check aiming more for the mid 80s.
