

FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 2022 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Half an inch to a full inch of rain has fallen since sunset last night about 5 miles to our south and west towards Old San Juan, but amazingly we have only received a trace to a few hundredths of an inch of rain so far through sunrise this morning. Rain showers and periodic sprinkles will continue to plague the area this morning with the most numerous showers on radar over the next few hours and as we get closer to lunchtime we should start to see more and more breaks in the action. The drop in precip chances continues this afternoon with what should be a drier finish to the day. Temps are starting off in the mid 70s with a little more breeze than was expected early this morning, then look for highs to be in the lower 80s this afternoon as east/northeast winds gust in the mid 20s for the most part although an occasional gust in the upper 20s is not out of the question. We could see a rogue shower/sprinkle again tonight into Saturday morning as well as Saturday night. Temps and winds do not change much over the weekend.
