This is the 77th U.S. Women's Open Championship Presented by ProMedica. The first U.S. Women's Open, played at Spokane (Wash.) Country Club in 1946, was the only one conducted at match play. The Women's Professional Golfers Association (WPGA) conducted the inaugural championship, won by Patty Berg. The WPGA conducted the Women's Open until 1949, when the newly formed Ladies Professional Golf Association (LPGA) took over operation of the championship. The LPGA ran the Women's Open for four years but in 1953 asked the United States Golf Association to conduct the championship, which it has done ever since.

The youngest winners of the U.S. Women's Open are Inbee Park (2008) and Yuka Saso (2021). Each player captured the championship at the age of 19 years, 11 months, 17 days. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, who won the 1954 Women's Open at age 43 years, 6 months, is the oldest winner.

In 1967, Catherine Lacoste, daughter of French tennis player Rene Lacoste and 1927 British Ladies Amateur champion Simone Thion de la Chaume, became the only amateur to win the U.S. Women's Open. Seven other amateurs – most recently Hye-Jin Choi in 2017 – have finished as runner(s)-up.

Notable Amateur Storylines

Malak Bouraeda, 21, of Morocco, is the first player to represent Morocco in a U.S. Women's Open. She recently completed her senior year at the University of Colorado and is planning to return as a fifth-year senior in the fall while pursuing a master's degree. Bouraeda lost her mother to a long battle with Crohn's disease when she was 10 years old and has since dedicated herself to becoming a Division 1 golfer. She has four top-10 finishes in her college career and advanced to last year's NCAA Baton Rouge Regional as an individual before the event was canceled due to unplayable course conditions.

Jensen Castle, 21, of West Columbia, S.C., defeated Yu-Chiang (Vivian) Hou, 2 and 1, to win the 121st U.S. Women's Amateur Championship at Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y., last August. Three weeks later, she earned 2 points for the victorious USA Curtis Cup Team, finishing with a 1-1-2 record in Wales, and she will also play for the USA in next week's 42nd Curtis Cup Match at Merion Golf Club. Castle, who set Kentucky's single-season stroke average record as a freshman, notched two top-20 finishes in the fall and led the team with a 71.75 stroke average. She earned a T12 finish at the 2022 Augusta National Women's Amateur.

Anna Davis, 16, of Spring Valley, Calif., became the youngest Augusta National Women's Amateur champion in April after carding a final-round, 3-under-par 69 to defeat LSU teammates Ingrid Lindblad and Latanna Stone by one stroke. The left-hander has since played in her first two LPGA events and made the cut in both. She won twice in 2021, a seven-stroke victory in the 2021 PGA Girls' Junior Championship and her first AJGA win in the Heather Farr Classic. Davis reached match play of the 2021 U.S. Girls' Junior and advanced to the quarterfinals of the 2021 U.S. Women's Amateur Four-Ball Championship with partner Lucy Yuan. She will make her major championship debut in the U.S. Women's Open.

Bailey Davis, 19, of White Plains, Md., became the second Black golfer to advance to a U.S. Girls' Junior final last July, losing to world No. 1 Rose Zhang at Columbia Country Club in Chevy Chase, Md. Davis, who is competing in her first U.S. Women's Open, earned Southeastern Conference All-Freshman honors this spring at the University of Tennessee. In 2021, she was the runner-up at the Mack Invitational in Texas to 2022 Curtis Cup competitor Amari Avery. Davis won the 2020 Maryland State Girls Amateur and was a three-time Maryland 4A high school champion.

Anna Morgan, 21, of Spartanburg, S.C., earned her first two individual collegiate victories at Furman University this season and was named the 2022 Southern Conference player of the year for the second time. Her seven-stroke win in the Lady Paladin Invitational in September set a tournament record for winning score (13 under). Last summer, the college junior finished runner-up in the North & South Women's Amateur and reached the Round of 32 in the 2021 U.S. Women's Amateur at Westchester Country Club in Rye, N.Y. She finished T-21 in the 2022 Augusta National Women's Amateur.

Rose Zhang, 19, of Irvine, Calif., is a two-time USGA champion and currently No. 1 in the Women's WAGR, having won the McCormack Medal as the world's leading amateur in August for the second consecutive year. On May 23, she won the NCAA Division I individual title, becoming the second straight Stanford University freshman to do so. After winning the 2020 U.S. Women's Amateur in Maryland, Zhang earned her second USGA title last July, defeating Bailey Davis, 6 and 4, in the final match of the 2021 U.S. Girls' Junior, becoming just the eighth player to win both the U.S. Girls' Junior and U.S. Women's Amateur. Zhang began her collegiate career earning individual victories in her first three starts. It was the first time in Cardinal history that a freshman – male or female – won their first three events. Prior to arriving at Stanford, Zhang went 4-0-1 to lead the USA over Great Britain & Ireland in the 2021 Curtis Cup in Wales, and she will compete for the USA again next week in the 42nd Curtis Cup at Merion Golf Club. She has competed in six women's major championships, making the cut in three, including a T11 finish in the 2020 ANA Inspiration. Zhang finished T12 at this year's Augusta National Women's Amateur.
