

SATURDAY, JULY 23rd, 2022 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

The Final Round of the Championship will be gorgeous, but brutally hot with temperatures quickly warming in the low 90s by lunchtime. Dew points within the lower 70s and a high temperature soaring near 100 degrees this afternoon will send our Heat Index near 105 degrees occasionally. A few high clouds try to filter in with the afternoon sun as a convective system slides further southeast through portions of Indiana/Ohio. This system should stay off to our northeast along a warm front later today while broad high pressure remains intact across the area. Being so hot and humid, I have kept a low 20% for a hit of miss shower/storm later this afternoon with the likelihood of us staying dry. Winds will be similar to yesterday and primarily out of the south and west briefly breezing in the low to mid teens. Another mostly clear night ahead of us with the low temperature near the mid 70s and more dry weather leading into Sunday.
