

SUNDAY, AUGUST 21, 2022 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Humid conditions linger. After a close call with morning fog, mostly cloudy skies take over into the afternoon. Some peeks of sunshine will heat us to the low to mid 80s, sparking a possibility of showers and thunderstorms this afternoon. Winds out of the southeast gusting around 12 - 15 mph will take over in the afternoon, keeping a subtle sea breeze boundary nearby once again. Precip chances increase late tonight, and Monday arrives with widespread coverage of rain and embedded thunder between 7 and 11 AM. Monday's atmosphere supports rainfall over 0.50", potentially near an inch should multiple thunderstorms take aim at Ridgewood.
