

TUESDAY, MAY 16, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Yesterday's rare thunderstorms are in the rearview mirror. The only remnants are 0.05" of rain in the rain gauge. Tuesday's weather sees a vast improvement under mostly cloudy skies to start. A cooler, western breeze will gust around 15 mph in exposed areas, as the high temperature fails to reach 80 degrees. A slight chance of a shower cannot be ruled out in the late afternoon, but the action is supposed to stay in the mountains. Overnight, the marine cloud deck trickles back inland and keeps the low around 55 degrees. Wednesday sees more sunshine, and warms into the low 80s. Overall, fantastic weather is forecast through the rest of the week!
