

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER OUTLOOK

Some light fog and mist has settled at Sleepy Hollow this morning, but it should burn off rather quickly as we make our way through the morning. As we go through the morning we could have a passing shower / mist come through the area, but once we get to the afternoon the heavier showers and storms start getting into the forecast. Our winds will stay in the 4 - 8 mph range for most of the day but we have a storm close by the winds could jump without much warning. Overnight we could see another round of showers to give us a soggy start to our day on Sunday. There is also a chance we could have some fog in the area though the early morning. Sunday the showers and storms look to be firing up earlier than the past with storms possible by mid morning. These showers and storms will be very hit or miss through the day. Overnight Sunday night could have another round of overnight rain that could carry into Monday morning. Monday also looks to have the chances of afternoon showers and storms.
