

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 2023 – 6 AM WEATHER OUTLOOK

This morning we are a bit wet as some overnight rain found its way over the course. We are currently tracking some showers to our southwest, as of now it looks that they will just miss us to our east. As we go through our afternoon our chances of rain and storms make a jump in the mid afternoon. Overnight tonight we could see some more showers to wet the course as we arrive Tuesday morning. Tuesday looks to be a good day for golf as our chances of showers and storms have decreased, but a stray shower / mist is possible in the afternoon. Tuesday night and into Wednesday our rain chances make another jump as the current models have us starting wet early in the morning and the rain sticking around until the early afternoon. Wednesday night looks to dry up again but a stray overnight shower is not out of the realm of possibility. Once we make it to Thursday we look to have a great day for golf with rain chances almost nonexistent and we will be mostly sunny through the day.
