AUGUST 6, 2024 - 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Another day, another 100+ degree temperature. We are looking at our hottest day of the week as temps will be around 104 this afternoon. We will see winds from many different directions today as we will start out from the southwest and shift all the way to the north overnight tonight. Our peak speeds will be 8 - 12 mph with gusts in the 20s possible at times though the day. Wednesday looks to still be hot as we are looking at another 100 degree day. Winds will be out of the northeast to east though the day at 5 - 10 mph. Thursday looks to be the last day of triple digit temps as a weak front will push in overnight bringing up our rain and storm chances overnight and into Friday morning. Once any showers we see do clear out we will still be hot as temps will be in the upper 90s the rest of the day with flow out of the northeast at 6 - 12 mph in the afternoon. Saturday looks to be dry and not as hot. Temps will be in the mid 90s in the afternoon finally giving us a break from the extreme heat. Sunday's forecast has taken a turn this morning as showers are expected through the day with a chance of a passing thunderstorm or two. With the rain and extra cloud cover our high will be in the upper 80s on Sunday.
