124TH U.S. WOMEN'S AMATEUR SOUTHERN HILLS

USGA

AUGUST 8, 2024 - 6 AM WEATHER FORECAST

Storms are on the approach here in Tulsa as a line of storms to our northwest has begun its march though the state. This line looks to arrive in our area in the mid morning and could last into the early afternoon. The line is currently tracking just to our north so we could see flashes of lightning around the course and not see a drop of rain though the storm. As the cold front continues to push our way the storms will begin to move out of our area and our chance of any rain and storms will drop off by the evening. Friday looks like it could be another wet start as we keep elevated rain chances though part of the afternoon. Winds will be out of the northeast at 8 - 16 mph in the morning. With the cold front passing through our high will be in the upper 80s. Saturday will be a wet start as we could see up to ¾ of an inch just in the morning. Unfortunately more is possible if the wrong cell finds its way overhead. Saturday will be our coolest day with a high in the upper 70s. Sunday our rain chances stay elevated in the morning before starting to clear out in the afternoon. Our high will be in the mid 80s with winds from the east and southeast at 6 - 12 mph.
