THOR GUARD WEATHER

124TH U.S. WOMEN'S AMATEUR SOUTHERN HILLS

USGA

AUGUST 9, 2024 - 1:30 PM WEATHER FORECAST

Today the storms have stayed to our south and west, giving us some great weather so far today as we are sitting in the mid 80s with winds out of the northeast at 7 - 14 mph. We do keep a low chance of a stray shower or storm heading into the overnight hours. Tomorrow morning showers and storms will be heading in from the east into our area. Unfortunately when these showers and storms show up they will be here as we head into the afternoon. The only bright spot we have is showers are more likely than full on thunderstorms. As we go through Saturday rain chances stay elevated with a high in the mid 70s. Sunday looks like we will be starting off our day with thunderstorms though the morning and into the early afternoon with 80% chance of rain and 60% chance of thunderstorms in the morning and chances dropping slightly in the afternoon. Heavy rain is possible with some of these storms. Once we make it into the later afternoon our rain and storm chances do come down and we will see a high in the low 80s with winds from the southeast at 6 - 12 mph.
