

U.S. Amateur Four-Ball

May 18, 2026

Desert Mountain Club, Scottsdale, Ariz.

Round of 32 (Cochise Course)

Evan Beck & Dan Walters

Q. How did you guys close this one out today?

Walters: “We turned in 2 up, we basically had two balls on the green except for the last hole. I had Evan on an island, he’s pretty accomplished to be able to take care of that in the middle of the fairway always.”

Q. You guys have had a lot of success in match play in this championship, what makes you guys click in this environment?

Beck: “Just a really fun championship, we get along really well, comfortable playing with each other. It’s a fun event, we don’t get to play many two-man deals, it’s one we look forward to every year.”

Q. Have you guys played much coming out of winter?

Beck: We played a couple weeks ago up at Kinloch at the Giles Invitational. Outside of that, nothing really.”

Walters: “I hadn’t played competitive golf since the Crump Cup in the fall.”

Q. What do you do to keep yourselves in golf shape?

Walters: “I’m not grinding. Once the springtime comes, my boys, I have a 12- and 9-year-old that love to play golf, so I get to play with them. You keep playing, but you have other life events going on, but at the same time that allows being here almost more special in a way. This is time to enjoy playing golf.”

Q. Little more of a relaxing atmosphere, this championship, right, for you guys? Different than a mid-am.

Beck: “I always say to people, it’s a USGA event and they are always run so well. Most people who they are playing with here are friends or a family member, a person close to you, and you get to compete at a beautiful venue.”

Q. Did you get married in the offseason?

Walters: I did, October 1st. This is my first trip really away. She is very supportive of my hobby.”
