The Worldwide Pioneer in Communication and Leadership Development

Toastmasters then... and now

Toastmasters International is a nonprofit educational organization that empowers individuals to become more effective communicators and leaders. Founded in October 1924, the organization's membership exceeds 358,000 in more than 16,800 clubs in 143 countries. Each week, Toastmasters helps more than a quarter million people of every ethnicity, education and profession build their competence in communication so they can gain the confidence to lead others.

Toastmasters International Mission

We empower individuals to become more effective communicators and leaders.

Toastmasters International Envisioned Future

To be the first-choice provider of dynamic, high-value, experiential communication and leadership skills development.

Toastmasters International Values:

- ▶ Integrity
- ▶ Respect
- ▶ Service
- ▶ Excellence

Toastmasters Then

In 1924, Dr. Ralph C. Smedley held the first official Toastmasters meeting in a basement of the YMCA, in Santa Ana, California. Smedley began working for the YMCA after he graduated college. Observing that many of its patrons needed public speaking training, he decided to help them with a training format that was similar to a social club. At this first meeting, members practiced speaking skills in a supportive, informal atmosphere. The seedling club blossomed and by the 1930s the organization charted its first international club in Vancouver, Canada. In 1973, Toastmasters met an important milestone by opening membership to women.

Why name it "Toastmasters"? - During the early 1900s, the word "toastmaster" referred to a person who proposed the toasts and introduced speakers at banquets. Ralph C. Smedley coined the first group "The Toastmasters Club" because he thought it suggested a pleasant, social atmosphere.

And Now

Since 1924, Toastmasters International has evolved into a worldwide leader in communication and leadership development for men and women. Toastmasters membership has played a critical role in transforming the world of communication – by helping millions of people improve their personal and professional speaking and leadership skills.

Speaking and Leadership Tips from Toastmasters International

Feeling some nervousness before giving a speech is natural and even beneficial, but too much nervousness can be detrimental. Here are 10 proven tips from Toastmasters International on how to control your butterflies and give better presentations:

- ▶ Know your material. Pick a topic you are interested in. Know more about it than you include in your speech. Use humor, personal stories and conversational language—that way you won't easily forget what to say.
- ▶ Practice. Practice. Practice! Rehearse out loud with all equipment you plan on using. Revise as necessary. Work to control filler words; Practice, pause and breathe. Practice with a timer and allow time for the unexpected.
- ▶ Know that audience. . Greet some of the audience members as they arrive. It's easier to speak to a group of friends than to strangers.
- ▶ Know the room. Arrive early, walk around the speaking area and practice using the microphone and any visual aids.
- ▶ Relax. Begin by addressing the audience. It buys you time and calms your nerves. Pause, smile and count to three before saying anything. (One one-thousand, two one-thousand, three one-thousand. Pause. Begin.) Transform nervous energy into enthusiasm.
- ▶ Visualize yourself giving your speech. Imagine yourself speaking, your voice loud, clear and confident. Visualize the audience clapping – it will boost your confidence.
- ▶ Realize that people want you to succeed. Audiences want you to be interesting, stimulating, informative and entertaining. They're rooting for you.
- ▶ Don't apologize for any nervousness or problem—the audience probably never noticed it.
- ▶ Concentrate on the message– not the medium. Focus your attention away from your own anxieties and concentrate on your message and your audience.
- ▶ Gain experience. . Mainly, your speech should represent you—as an authority and as a person. Experience builds confidence, which is the key to effective speaking. A Toastmasters club can provide the experience you need in a safe and friendly environment.

One of the most important elements of leadership is the ability to motivate people. Without motivation, even the most skilled team of seasoned professionals is unlikely to achieve great things. A highly motivated group of talented people, on the other hand, can move mountains.

While it's true that motivating people involves more than just changing the way you speak, here are some guidelines you can follow to help build team motivation with only your words and your voice:

- ▶ Be enthusiastic. Enthusiasm is contagious! Before you present your ideas, think about the aspects of the subject that you find the most interesting, and don't be afraid to let that interest come through in your voice.

- ▶ Use quotes, stories and anecdotes. Along with their obvious entertainment value, quotes and stories can lend authority to your topic and provide concrete examples that people can relate to.
- ▶ Speak with confidence. Deliver your message loud and clear. Maintain eye contact with your listeners. Don't mumble or slouch.
- ▶ Say you and we, not I and me. . Instead of telling people what you want them to do, present ways for them to work together to achieve their goals. Involve listeners in the success of the group.
- ▶ Keep it simple. People aren't motivated by what you say; they're motivated by what they understand. The best way to ensure audience understanding is to break down complex ideas into simple components.

Become the Speaker and Leader You Want to Be

How Toastmasters Works

At Toastmasters, members learn by speaking to groups and working with others in a supportive environment. A typical Toastmasters club is made up of 20 to 30 people who meet once a week for approximately an hour. Each meeting gives everyone an opportunity to practice:

- ▶ Conducting meetings. Members learn how to plan and conduct meetings.
- ▶ Giving impromptu speeches. Members present one-to-two-minute impromptu speeches on assigned topics.
- ▶ Presenting prepared speeches. Members present speeches based on projects in the Toastmasters education program. Projects cover topics such as speaking, organization, vocal variety, language, gestures and persuasion.
- ▶ Offering constructive evaluation. Every member giving a prepared speech is assigned an evaluator who identifies speech strengths and offers suggestions for improvement.

The Tools Toastmasters Use

Upon joining Toastmasters, each new member receives a variety of resources on how to become a better speaker and a more confident leader. Members also have access to other materials and educational resources. In addition, they receive the award-winning Toastmaster, a monthly magazine that offers the latest insights on speaking and leadership techniques.

Toastmasters and Leadership

Leadership cannot be learned in a day. It takes practice. In Toastmasters, members learn leadership skills by organizing and conducting meetings, and by completing education projects. The projects address skills such as listening, planning, team-building and motivating others, and they give members the opportunity to practice such skills. Just as Toastmasters members learn to speak by speaking, they learn leadership by leading.

Company Benefits

A company's success depends on communication. Employees face an endless exchange of ideas, messages and information as they deal with one another and with customers day after day. How well they connect and share their ideas with customers, clients and co-workers can determine whether a company grows into an industry leader or joins thousands of other businesses mired in mediocrity.

Toastmasters provides the tools that enable employees to become effective presenters and leaders – all at a very low cost averaging $50 every six months. Toastmasters training helps employees:

- ▶ Give better sales presentations
- ▶ Hone their management skills
- ▶ Work better with fellow employees
- ▶ Effectively develop and present ideas
- ▶ Offer constructive criticism
- ▶ Accept feedback more objectively
